INSIDE THE JOYCE AGENCY

Please Welcome Karen Anderson!

Karen comes from a background in general office administration with most of her experience in facilities management and design/construction of commercial office space. She has worked in a variety of companies including a medical publisher, accounting firm, a real estate brokerage firm, an architecture firm and a preschool. She was even the project manager when The Joyce Agency moved to their current location back in 2012!

Karen was born in Upstate New York and lived in Philadelphia for many years before transferring to the DC Metro area. In her free time, when she is not driving to soccer practice, she enjoys spending time outdoors and rooting for the Washington Nationals with her husband, son, and dog. Karen will be working as a member of our administration team.

Please give her a warm welcome karen@thejoyceagency.com!

Joyce on the Job

Annapolis celebrates Great American Clean Up by dedicating Elkay Bottle Filler

This past May 6, the city of Annapolis, MD hosted an event to promote environmental stewardship. The city, home to the famous Chesapeake Bay, is motivated to return the Bay to the once pristine condition. As part of Keep America Beautiful's nationwide "Great American Clean-Up," volunteers across the city focused on cleaning their own block, with a special emphasis on four key areas of the city that have the most traffic, and therefore the most trash.

Later, an open house was hosted at the Annapolis Visitor's Center, where an Elkay Water Bottle Filling Station was officially dedicated, in recognition of the role it can play in keeping single-use plastics out of the city's environment and waterways.

A beautiful 8-foot Blue Heron sculpture was also dedicated at the Visitor Center.

The sculpture is designed to be filled with picked up trash to encourage visitors to clean up after themselves when they visit the area. The sculpture's creator, Jim Swaim, said he hopes the sculpture helps people realize that litter and unrecycled trash ends up in our waterways and in the bodies of marine animals. Unable to digest the man-made materials, this trash ultimately imperils the marine animals' lives, which in turn has a negative impact for all of the other species that depend upon these animals as a food source - including man.

PEX or CPVC pipe and fittings: Which is the right choice for cost and performance?

By: Plumbing & Mechanical Magazine

PEX or CPVC

Which is your best choice?

Plumbing professionals have many options when selecting piping materials to use but are increasingly turning to either PEX or CPVC pipe and fittings for their residential and commercial plumbing systems.

When we take a step back to look at the track record of these popular materials on key measures, including total installed cost and long-term performance, it's time for us to ask: PEX or CPVC — which is the right choice?

Training Testimonials

The Joyce Agency offers a wide range of training opportunities both at our office and at YOUR facility thanks to our Dean of Education, Mike Wentz. Mike received this feedback after a recent Rinnai training:

"Your training was well received and we were able to apply some of your tips today with good results!

We also appreciated the way that you instructed as you made it fun to learn!

You be sure to be safe as well and thank you again."
